HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, January 26 .- The HOUSE

mr. HARDING, of Kentucky, said that Mr. HABDING, of Kentucky, said that the country had labored under the delusion that when slavery was abolished all cause of strife and dissension would be removed from it. He said that slavery was the cause of the rebellion, although slavery was abolished the megro came back with redoubled force. The Republican party had manufactured a large amount of capital out of the negro question, and they were still drawing upon it. The fact that the question had continued so long showed with what had continued so long showed with what care the Republican party had managed it. This was the first time that a political party the Republican party, and vote their ticket ation of this country their own po-tical dogmas, including negro suffrage. legroes are all to be converted into voters and the idea that they will be allies of the Republican party, and vote their ticket. They wanted to force political negro equality, but they would never do it in Kentucky, and if the States would not consent to this political negro equality they were to be robbed of their representation. While claiming that the white is a superior race, he opposed the efforts to give the black man a share of the Government.

Mr. KELDY, of Pennsylvania, said, as the gentleman charged that the laborers, whom he called negroes, have been seduced from the border States, he wished to ask whether their relations were not still there in great numbers after taking out every negro of Kentucky.

Mr. HABDING replied that the gentleman's responses showed his sympathies were not all for the negro. Harding infinitely preferred giving suffrage to white women than to the negro. Mr. McKEE, of Kentucky, held that as slavery had been wiped out the Constitution needed an amoudment; but this was denied by those who were opposed to lovying war, and who said we had no right to call out troops to crush treason. Those who were in jayor of amending the Constitution were payor of amending the Constitution were uset by these gentlemen with the cry of usurpation, because Representatives from rebellious States were not admitted to the floor. He did not desire to see the day when traitors could use to come back and have the same rights as those who upheld our banner in the field.

A colloquy took place between Grider and McKee. The former was understood to sak as peace had retured, why the Southern repreentatives were not admitted Mr. McKEE replied that if peace did ex-ist, he (McKee) could see no reason why there should be any objection to the constiwhich his colleague acted had during the war said that was not the time to amend that instrument. Mr. McKee did not believe that peace reigned except by means of armed power, but while he thought thus he held it was no less right but the duty of Congress to make all laws no cessary to protect the entire people, secure them in the

Mr. STEWART said he held that the built up at so much expense. All he would not shown a loval spirit such as would justify their admission. Let them send men here who during the war have stood by the country.

Mr. KERR, of Indiana, replied to the remarks of Mr. Kelly, delivered on the previous day and denied that Congress had the right and power to go into any State and there regulate suffrage so as to secure the right to vote to every citizen of the age of 21 years who had lived in any State of the Union. He opposed the adoption of any constitutional amendment as this was no time nor was there any reason for it. An amendment would not equalize the representatives was that the people that function.

Mr. KASSON, of Iowa, said that on the provious day he declared that Congress had no rightly the Constitution as shown by 9th of August 1787, to go into Pennsylvani and Iowa and say what electors should con trol the Legislatures of those and all other vania (Mr. Kelly) having controverted bis position, and read from debates to support his views, Mr. KASSON pointed out the dis-tinction made by Mr. Madison between the right of suffrage and the mode of suffrage, and showed that Mr. Madison was seru-Mr. WRIGHT, of Maryiand, salt: Th

Mr. WADE, of Onio, introduced a bill to provide for the improvement of certain har-bors in the State of Ohio. Referred to the committee on Commerce. It appropriates in round numbers $231,000 for the purpose, including $59,000 for the Cleveland harbor $24,000 for Grand River; $12,000 for Ashta in: $20,000 for Conneaut: $38,000 for Sanboolittle and Johnson against the resolu-tion. He thought it time for the Senate to stop talking to the country, and reason to-ther as to what was best to be done for the nation. There are millions in the South in this Territory, but all are not able to in who have been changed by a national decree from chattels to men, and there are other quence, many of their children must grow tution of the country. These two classes seemed to demand some care and protection which they had not hitherto received. It was of them he spoke. He had thought it belonged to republican institutions to carry out and execute the doctrines of the Decla-ration of Independence, to make men equal. hat they were not equal in social estima-ion, not equal in mental culture or physical tation, he knew very well; but he thought station, he knew very well; but the decoura-the weaker they were the more the Govern-ment was bound to protect them. He knew that a great many of those in whose behalf he spoke are uneducated, but he supposed it was within the province of the Republic to give culture and education to them. Replying to the argument of Mr. Johnson, that the United States could not make war that the United States could not make war against a State, he said that while the peole of a State maintain obedience aws they are not amenable to the war powers of the Government, but when a State arrayed itself against the Government State arrayed itself against the Government it was amenable to those powers. He never held that the States were destroyed by the war. They were destroyed before the war. Before the war was inaugurated, the people of the rebel States took down the States permitted by the Constitution and erected others as unlike those which the Constitu-tion permits as the Germanic or Mexican States. When South Carolina fired on Fort States. When South cardinal matter and overthrew the United States authority then she ceased to be a State, and all her people became, in the eyes of the law, criminals and feloms.

The first four years of war, Mr. Howe said, were spent in an effort to put down the said, were spent in an effort to put down the said, were spent in said to leave any impreslitical organizations South, nor with slavery.

This was for the purpose of appealing to the magnanimity of the South, but we found afterwards that there was but one way of making necessarily that the south of the of the government to interfere wit making peace, and that was by whipping the enemies of our country.

Mr. Howe quoted from letters and documents to prove that the people of that sec-tion were disloyal, and only kept in a state of obedient by the presence of the military Howe was interrupted by Mr. Con-
